Curitiba

Dear reader,

The awareness of the Brazilian corporate society on the importance of the social side in actions leading to the development and wealth generation is increasing each year. Entrepreneurs realize that they have to give something back to society and that they can actually profit from their commitment to social responsibility and sustainable development.

Society is increasingly demanding business attitudes committed to the impact of such policies on the audiences related to them. Concepts such as ethics and transparency are now ruling the actions of those promoting development and who need to have the value of their image, concept and product acknowledged.

Effectively committed to the strategic management of social responsibility and sustainable development, the Advanced Institute of Administration and Economics of Getulio Vargas Foundation, as a signatory of the Global Compact, has guided all of its actions toward the concepts promoted by that document, which are based on the ten basic management principles.

By promoting the dissemination of knowledge, ISAE/FGV has always been integrated with the community and, as simultaneously expanded its international partnerships, it also promoted entrepreneurship and encouraged actions for environmental preservation and respect. Actions that significantly increased in 2007, by means of promoting the premises of the Global Compact and the Eight Millennium Goals approved by the United Nations Organization.

These actions may be understood by reading the document below, in which a knowledge institution committed to ethics and transparency, and responsible for disseminating practices for academic, business and governmental communities in Brazil and abroad is presented.

Enjoy the reading!

ISAE/FGV

During its 12 years of activities as a business school, ISAE/FGV has already graduated around 10,000 students from its graduate and extension courses in the areas of business management, business administration, logistics, finance, project management, marketing and social responsibility.

Due to the impact it has on Paraná's corporate society and because it believes that companies are important agents for social transformation, ISAE/FGV created, in 2001, the Center for Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development. The center was created to meet the local demand for a professional training center as well as specific studies on the issue of social responsibility. During the same year, ISAE/FGV became a member of the Global Compact movement and signed this document.

In order to promote socially responsible management and sustainable development, ISAE/FGV relies on support of important partners such as the Ethos Institute and the Group of Institutes, Foundations and Companies (GIFE). ISAE/FGV is a member of the Uniethos Council, an institution focused on research, the production of knowledge and other activities related to Corporate Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development in Brazil. ISAE/FGV is also an official partner of the Fome Zero ("Zero Hunger") program coordinated by the Brazilian Federal Government. Since 2001, ISAE/FGV has also been a member of the Brazilian Global Compact Committee. In 2005, the institution was invited to become a member of the working group to establish the ISO 26000. In April 2006, it became a member of the Global Compact Academic Partners and, in August 2006, it adhered to the Pact for Integrity and Against the Corruption.

At the beginning of 2007, ISAE/FGV becomes a member of a United Nations task force, by invitation of Mr. George Kell, a UN executive director. The group is made up of 50 scholars, rectors and representatives of academic associations all over the world with the purpose of developing the Global Compact Academic Principles – the “Principles for Responsible Management Education”.

Business schools are going to make use of their circle of influences for the formation of socially responsible leaders, who take sustainability into consideration and ensure a fair development process.

These principles were launched during the Global Compact Leader Summit held in Geneva last July.

Along with the invitation to participate in the task force, the UN executive director also indicated ISAE/FGV as an example of good practices for the development of responsible corporate citizenship. ISAE/FGV has distinguished itself, among other reasons, for taking the Global Compact principles into the strategic corporate management and for encouraging the masters’ courses students to produce articles on the good practices and the results obtained by companies from Paraná after the adoption of such principles.

ACTIONS, POLICIES AND PRACTICES DEVELOPED BY ISAE/FGV 2007
CORRELATION WITH THE MILLENNIUM GOALS AND THE GLOBAL COMPACT PRINCIPLES

In order to facilitate understanding and reading, the actions, policies and practices are distributed into eight groups: dissemination of knowledge, generation of knowledge, integration with the community, international partnerships, entrepreneurship, the internal public, the environment, and participation in entities and events.

I DISSEMINATION OF KNOWLEDGE

1. Interface between academics and the market

Millennium Goals								7	8
Global Compact Principles								8

Fulfilling its mission of disseminating knowledge, ISAE/FGV serves as a crucial interface between the academic world, society and the market through a network of partners, companies and the government, promoting discussions related to social responsibility and sustainability. ISAE/FGV also participates in the following actions and projects:

- ISAE/FGV is part of the team of the State Organizing Committee for the 3rd State Environmental Conference.

- ISAE/FGV coordinates the UNILEHU team in the Manager Development Study Groups, Legal Study Groups, Occupational Safety Study Group, Social Inclusion Committee, whose purpose is to discuss topics relevant to the inclusion of diversity in companies. The topics discussed include: "Evaluating Processes and their Tools" by Mrs. Arlete Zagonel; Workshop on "Competence, Skill and Attitude" by Eduardo Almeida; "Solution Builders" by Cida Nogarolli; "The Secret" by Eduardo Almeida; "Relational Psychomotricity in Companies" by Motriz Empresarial; "The Leader who Develops Leaders" by Marcelo Maulepes; "Non-retirement preparation Program" by Armelindo Girardi;

2. Courses offered

2.1 Social Responsibility Courses

Millennium Goals								8
Global Compact Principles	1		3					10

The Social Responsibility Courses were launched in May 2007 with the lecture "Social Responsibility and the Tragedy of the Commons" by economist Rubens Mazzali, president of Amcham Social Responsibility Strategic Committee and executive director of the Quasar Institute of Technology and Social Logistics.

ISAE/FGV offered another Competence Updating Program in Corporate Social Responsibility in June 2007. The courses are intended for professionals focused on the current workforce practices. Classes are taught by the same MBA teachers at FGV, using a methodology with more comprehensive contents within the same specialty area and workshops that encourage professional development. The 147-hour program also provides exercises and analysis of real cases aiming at inspiring practical solutions for the students' every day problems. It included the following academic disciplines: Business Ethics, Economic Social-Political Context; Environmental Context; Planning and Implementing Social Responsibility; Tools to Manage Corporate Social Responsibility; Legal Aspects of the Third Sector and Elaboration and Evaluation of Corporate Social Projects. In addition to the academic disciplines, there were workshops held of Social Project Elaboration and Business Cases Presentation so that students could interact among one another.

2.2 Environmental Management Course – at-a-distance – FGV online

Millennium Goals								7	8
Global Compact Principles								7	8	9

ISAE/FGV offers the 30-hour online course “Environmental Series” focused on Environmental Management and Sustainable Development, Social-Environmental Responsibility, Business Administration, Environmental Preservation, Tools for Environmental Politics, within the context of the importance of society consciousness and mobilization for understanding environmental processes, existing mechanisms for its preservation, conservation and recuperation.

2.3 Didactic Material

Millennium Goals									8
Global Compact Principles	1

Since 2006, all didactic material produced and distributed to students for the courses offered by ISAE/FGV contains information on the Global Compact, the Global Compact Principles and the Millennium Goals with the objective of disseminating knowledge about the importance of these documents. In 2007, information on the Global Compact Academic Principles – the “Principles for Responsible Management Education” was included.

3. ISAE/FGV Site

Millennium Goals								7	8
Global Compact Principles	1

On its website, ISAE/FGV provides systematized information related to Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development, including Global Compact and the Millennium Goals related to the social responsibility management and including events on the theme, institutional programs and accomplished projects, along with the classroom and at-a-distance courses offered by the institution.

In 2007, a hot site with information on the Global Compact and, mainly, on the Taskforce was created. Angrad – National Association of Administration Courses of Brazil – is also used to mobilize individuals who have contributed with the elaboration of the Global Compact Academic Principles – the “Principles for Responsible Management Education”.

4. Strategic Sustainability Office

Creation of ISAE-FGV business unit in July 2007 focused on consulting services for business high management (board of directors) with work oriented to corporate sustainability strategies. In short, we value companies by turning them into safer investments. By assuming this level of strategic consultancy, the Office coordinates the operational consultancies as well.

The Sustainability Office logo represents a wing profile. Wings provide sustainability to flights. At the Office, we plan corporate wings in order to ensure the companies’ flight schedules.

The Strategic Sustainability Office acts as a sustainability consulting service for ISAE-FGV itself. Thus, the Office is currently advising the Center for Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development for ISAE/FGV Sustainability Committee.

5. Center for Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development

An area within ISAE-FGV focused on ethics management promotion for the relationships with our stakeholders (associates, consumers, customers, suppliers, and grantors – FGV, State, community, environment, and competitors), reducing risks and capitalizing opportunities, thus strengthening our reputation and valuing our brand name.

By coordinating the Sustainability Committee in an organically structured fashion by means of representatives groups from the relationship audiences, the Center generates and disseminates knowledge and attitudes to guide us on our strategic decisions.

II GENERATION OF KNOWLEDGE

1. Case Study: Agricultural Cooperative Santa Consolata – COPACOL

Millennium Targets								7	8
Global Pact Principles	1

As a member of BAWB Global Forum “Business as an Agent of World Benefit: Management Knowledge Leading Positive Change”, in Cleveland, USA, in October 2007, ISAE/FGV, through its Superintendent Norman de Paula Arruda Filho, presented the Study Case of COPACOL. The case shows how the academic knowledge can add the new reality and practices of excellence to the organization, thus connecting the academic and business communities.

Two MBA courses of Business Administration were offered to COPACOL, as part of the planning to develop abilities of management in the highest step of the Cooperative. It involves the training of future managers to help the implantation of DNA (Performance, Environment and Alliance) COPACOL Project. This project is about the consolidation of the Administration of the Organizational Culture that converges pre-existing actions at the cooperative, their programs and organization values. ISAE/FGV developed the strategic planning.

Agricultural Cooperative Santa Consolata - COPACOL is formed by 4244 members, more than 4000 associates and creates around 10,000 indirect jobs.

In November 28th, 2006, ISAE/FGV signed a Protocol of Intentions with COPACOL with the objective of developing a Case Study dealing with the current results of the academic/company partnership. The project also foresees the publication, in 2007, of the best initiatives and impacts developed for the COPACOL team, under ISAE/FGV academic orientation. It represents an evolution of the role model of COPACOL administration, through the creation of a new leadership.

Development of a supportive project to create Guidelines and Practices at the Social Responsibility Area for COPACOL, with the ISAE/FGV Center for Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development.

In July 2007, ISAE/FGV presented Copacol Case Study in the Global Compact Leader Summit, held at the Palais des Nations in Geneva, Switzerland.

COPACOL was the first company from the agribusiness segment in Brazil to adhere to the Global Compact, influenced by ISAE/FGV. The DNA Copacol program is the result of that, a contribution for the eradication of hunger and misery, more quality of life for people by means of environmental preservation and basic quality education for everyone. The goal is to provide more jobs and higher income for the region the cooperative operates, in the countryside of the State of Paraná; recover riparian forests surrounding 40 rivers and integrate 5,000 children and teenagers into social programs.

The MBAs accomplished with the Cooperative have also resulted into more than 50 other projects.

III INTEGRATION WITH THE COMMUNITY

1. UANÁ Voluntary Management Consulting Program

Millennium Goals	1	2					8
Global Compact Principles	1		3			6

This program is an institutional initiative of ISAE/FGV initially elaborated to support the Fome Zero ("Zero Hunger") Program and that has received the recognition of UNESCO, The Extraordinary Ministry of Food Security, and the Curitiba City Government. Its objective is to collaborate toward the development of solutions designed to help micro-enterprises, executives and NGOs by means of voluntary consulting services provided by ISAE/FGV students and alumni.

Issues related to social responsibility and sustainable development are always present when the volunteers participate, and they work to minimize exclusion and social inequality.

Uaná Voluntary Management Consulting Program is the result of a survey conducted at ISAE/FGV with the classes of 2001 and 2002. It has been checked that 56% of the students who answered the questionnaire had already performed some type of volunteer work, 83% of them would like to perform volunteer work and 89% of them would like to support social programs at ISAE/FGV. In addition, the choice of volunteer activities mentioned was the following: give lectures (57%), participate in recreational activities (37%) and help management processes (32%).

These figures have motivated the creation of the VOLUNTARY MANAGEMENT CONSULTING PROGRAM, whose main purpose is to make volunteer work available to people.

The program is intended for associates, students and alumni from graduate, MBA and Extension courses at ISAE/FGV.

Those interested in participating in the volunteer work take part in meetings and workshops where all information about the activities involved is presented.

Volunteers regard the activity as an extension and complement to their professional and personal learning, for they can help society by donating part of their time and going through experiences which are not part of their lives.

They believe that, through this kind of work, they can contribute for the personal and business development of entrepreneurs benefiting from the consulting service, suggest alternative paths and achieve business growth.

Another important point is the fact that the volunteers are reinforcing the theoretical, practical and professional knowledge acquired in the undergraduate, graduate and extension courses. The content acquired can be used in micro-enterprises still lacking a large structure.

In 2007, ISAE/FGV reopens enrollment for Entities interested in participating in the Uaná Voluntary Management Consulting Program. The partners of the program are the following organizations:

1. Elo Agency (www.eloagencia.org.br): Trains apprentice teenagers in situation of social risk and places them in the labor market and obtains sustainability by delivering social-environmental services.
2. Entrepreneurial Alliance (www.aliancaempreendedora.org.br): the organization works toward the formation of strategic collaborative networks, the organization of key figures, training and education activities, consulting and orientation in management, organization of events and projects designed to encourage and foster the entrepreneurial culture in underprivileged communities.
3. CUFA/PR (www.cufapr.com.br): The so-called Single Shantytown Center (CUFA) is a national organization that was born from young people's meetings, most of them black, from several shantytowns in Rio de Janeiro in search of some space in the city to express, in different ways, their attitudes, questionings or merely their desire for living. Most of these young people belonged to the Hip-Hop Movement and found out that the meetings represented a way of having mutual dreams and, consequently, formed a single ideal for themselves: transform the shantytowns, their talents and potentials in a society in which racial, social class and "origin" prejudice has not been outgrown yet.
4. Solidary School (www.formacaosolidaria.org.br): The Solidary School was born in 2002 from a project that intended to provide opportunities for youngsters to compete, on equal footing, for a place in public universities. The first class, with only one term, had 40 students. Even with a short period of time, the work performed by the volunteer teachers succeeded with one student gaining access to the Federal University of Paraná (UFPR). That result motivated even more all the people who dreamed of and worked in the first steps for the creation of the SOLIDARY SCHOOL.

5. Hospital Pequeno Príncipe (www.pequenoprincipe.org.br): Solidarity is one of the most effective medicine against most of the maladies. That is even truer when children are the subject. At the Hospital Pequeno Príncipe, the volunteer is a valuable agent of social transformation, donating his time and knowledge and accomplishing results generated by the energy of his solidary impulse. In this way, he fulfills both the needs of needy people and his own personal motivations.

6. Desembargador Alceu Conceição Machado Institute (www.amb.com.br): Founded on February 5th, 2004 by Court Judge Roberto Portugal Bacellar, the institute was born from the desire of a group of friends to improve other people's welfare. Among them, magistrates, prosecutors and lawyers who, taking as an example the deceased Supreme Court Judge Alceu Conceição Machado, wanted to accomplish even more for society and, particularly, for our children. The Institute, bearing the title of a Public Interest Non-Governmental Organization, is focused on the promotion of welfare of human beings, as well as the practice of social responsibility, by sponsoring researches and encouraging the development of social, assistance, educational, health care, cultural, sports, and professional training projects as well as other public interest activities.

7. Junior Achievement (www.japr.org.br): present in 112 countries, it offers educational programs through partnerships between schools and volunteers from companies with the objective of awakening the entrepreneurial spirit in young people, as well as stimulating personal development, providing a clear view of the business world and facilitating access to the job market.

8. MNREB (www.mnreb.com.br): The National Movement for the Recovery of Brazilian Companies (MNReb) was created to defend the need to create conditions for recovering ventures and business owners as well as proposing concrete measures that allow for the revitalization of small and medium companies in difficulty and provide an opportunity for the recovery of business owners, families and jobs.

9. Non-Violence Project (www.naoviolencia.org.br): The Non-Violence Project® is an International Non-Governmental Non-Profitable Organization founded in 1994 in Geneva (Switzerland), under the name Non-Violence Project Foundation. The project was introduced in Brazil (Curitiba, Paraná) in 1998 by the entrepreneur Roberto Demeterco who, along with other entrepreneurs, founded the Non-Violence Project Association Brazil (APNVB). APNVB relies on the support of Avina and Volkart Foundations, partner companies rendering voluntary services and financing the work developed by the institution.
10. Unilehu (www.unilehu.org.br): The Free University for the Human Being Efficiency is an institution that promotes recognition and capacitation of people, with special emphasis on individuals with disabilities. The main goal is to promote the social and professional inclusion of those people by means of innovative actions, with the direct support of the three sectors of the society through partnerships.

In 2007, more than 50 students enrolled in the program.

IV INTERNATIONAL PARTNERSHIPS

1. “Doing Business in Brazil” Program

Millennium Goals										8
Global Compact Principles

Every year, ISAE/FGV promotes an educational program with North-American learning institutions.

In 2007, master's degree students from the Moore School of Business – South Carolina University participated in the academic business program “IV Doing Business in Brazil – A Global Latin American and Brazilian Economy Overview: Formulation a New Strategic Purpose”. This program is recognized by the Ministry of External Relations. These programs are a part of the Executive and International Master's Degree programs, respectively, of these business schools. The program is designed to show North American students the ways of doing business with Brazilian companies. These activities are developed through classes and workshops at ISAE/FGV as well as organized technical visits to companies from many Brazilian cities.

Students from the Autonomous University of Asuncion, Paraguay, also attended a lecture about the importance of the ISAE/FGV contribution on Mercosur.

A team agreement with the Euromed University in Marseille, France, was signed in November 2007.

Among the held events, the visitor students had the opportunity to know the activities of the Center for Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development with the emphasis that ISAE/FGV attributes to those themes.

Millennium Goals		2					8
Global Compact Principles	1			5

Since 2004, ISAE/FGV has been a part of the Junior Achievement project because it believes in the potential of young people to define their objectives and transform them into a reality by focusing their interests. The goal here is to awaken the students’ entrepreneurial spirit while still in school through personal development and by providing a panorama of the way companies operate.

In this sense, ISAE/FGV received in 2007 young students in the program and they followed closely the daily operations of an entrepreneur. They also had contact with all the significant areas and got to know the work developed on each one of them.

VI INTERNAL PUBLIC

1. Personal and Professional Development

Millennium Goals	1	2						8
Global Compact Principles	1		3	4		6

ISAE/FGV fosters the development of personal and professional competencies by granting scholarships to the team of under-graduate and post-graduate degree course professors, as well as languages, including short-term programs and master degrees subsidized by ISAE/FGV. During 2007, more than 50% of the employees were assisted in this way.

The board of directors at ISAE/FGV has developed the Result Achieving Program that sets up organizational goals regarding the entire ISAE staff, as well as the goals for each individual team, based on the needs and objectives of each area. The program is based on two points. The first one defines the results the organization aims at achieving; the second one defines the level of contribution of each area in order to achieve such goals.

Competence Management is a modern role-model for managers arisen from the need of companies to develop and improve their level of competitiveness amid a globalized market. The concept of competence applied to ISAE is based on the set of knowledge, skills and attitudes translated into business added value. It is the capacity of taking the initiative in professional situations in a responsible way.

Global Compact Principles							8	9

1. National Conference of the Environment – Ministry of Environment

ISAE/FGV took part in the committee in charge of organizing the National Conference of the Environment of the Ministry of Environment which will happen in May 2007, participating in the monthly meetings to establish the planning of the event.

Our participation was through the Superintendent in the General Ordinary Assembly of Free University of the Environment– UNILIVRE. The agenda was the appreciation of report of activities and presentation for approval of settlement accounts of the organization.

2. Center of Reference for Projects of Mechanisms of Clear Development (MDL).

In March 2007, ISAE/FGV makes a movement to create the Center of Reference for Projects of Mechanisms of Clear Development (MDL) in Paraná. It was a Discussion Panel with active professionals in the area and counted on the participation of the General Attorney and Coordinator of Center of Support for Environmental Sections of Public Ministry of Paraná, the director of Development of Project Porto Pontal, the coordinator of Climate Changes for the State Secretariat of the Environment, the Financial Manager of Brascan Energética and the Commercial Manager of Business Unit of REPAR.

3. Campaign “Personal management for a global solution”

In May 2007 ISAE/FGV launches the campaign “Personal Management for a Global Solution”, through the Nucleus of Social Responsibility and Sustainable Development, worried about the sustainability of our planet and the graduation of socially responsible leaders. The joining to the worldwide movement against the climate crisis brings the issue into discussion among our students and collaborators. In this campaign we make suggestions on how to reduce the global warming, asking suggestions for the students.

4. ISAE/FGV Eco-efficiency Project

To ISAE/FGV eco-efficiency goes far beyond the efficiency in the usage of resources. Its acting aims to integrate actions, combine elements which make possible a socially and environmentally sustainable acting within society, among students, partners and collaborators, making the theme an everyday practice of good behavior. The acting takes place in four specific areas: healthy habitat, sustainable dealing of resources, spreading of concepts and business strategic eco-efficiency.

ISAE/FGV starts its actions within its Eco-efficiency Project:

- Remodeling of classrooms, placing sound isolation making the rooms more pleasant. The project pries the noise reduction between the classrooms and foresees the remodeling of two classrooms a month.
- Mugs are distributed to all collaborators to avoid the use of disposable glasses, contributing for environmental conservation.

- Establishing the new sound isolation system connected to illumination. With this action we can have 43% more illumination in the classrooms and reduction of 45% of energy consumption.
- Reduction in the use of drinkable water for activities such as washing the pavements, water the gardens and toilet flush, sets the system for rainwater collection. This system permits to collect the water which was lost to be used in such activities.

ISAE/FGV gets visitors from the University of Petrobrás, who are willing to know about the social-responsible initiatives and the eco-efficiency from ISAE/FGV. The program counted on lectures on actions and the institution functioning, as well as a visit to the installations. Amid the projects which were presented were the collection of rainwater , paper re-use and recycling, substitution of disposable plastic glasses by similar made of cellulose, the Uaná Voluntary Management Project , the creation of Center of Reference in MDL and the Sustainability Office.

IX CONCLUSION

The ISAE/FGV, as an Academic Institution, has emphasized more and more the development of Leadership Globally Responsible, based on Ethics of relationships and inspired by the challenges of Innovation and Corporate Sustainability. It is the North to where we go with intense determination.

More than determined, we are sure that our guiding concepts for a Responsible Business Education have been promoting new generations of leaders, corporate or institutional, ready for the noble mission of repositioning people and organizations for the present, which will be draw, with innovation, the sustainable development. Our future.

Globally responsible leaders are value generators. They value companies, their trademarks and their actions; they value people and their relationships; they value the environment and its resources. They value and establish value to themselves as intellectual capital, in which the organizations with good preview of the future definitely will invest on.

Therefore, the group of actions developed by ISAE/FGV tries to demonstrate not only the importance given to the issues related to the theme, but mainly the benefits of adopting this model in relation to the Millennium Goals, to the Principles of the Global Compact and to the Academic Principles of the Global Compact – the “Principles for Responsible Management Education”.

The responsible is whoever responds. Responsible Business Education is our response for the future.
