RENEWAL OF COMMITMENT TO PRME

INSEAD The Business School for the World - one of the world’s leading and largest graduate business schools whose main objectives are to educate innovative business leaders who accelerate this process of business creation throughout the world, and to provide better understanding of management, leadership, decision-making through cutting edge research - renews its commitment to PRME. We will continue to report on progress to all our stakeholders and exchange effective practices related to the six PRME principles with other academic institutions so as to be able to make our due contributions to promote and deliver a more responsible management education for the world.
